

Oliver "Ollie"

Back in April 2009 we adopted a black and tan mixed breed dog named Tag from a local shelter and by September, I decided he needed a buddy. I went to the Humane Society website and saw a video about six black and tan mixed breed puppies. I told my husband that they looked like little Tags and I just wanted to go meet them in person. There was one named Walt (now Oliver) that was so shy, he hid under a chair when we visited him. But he seemed to like me after about 10 minutes or so and I immediately loved him. He is the best little guy, always so full of happiness and joy. Oliver loves his "older brother", Tag, and they enjoy rumbling in the backyard, falling asleep watching movies on the couch, and chewing on their toy bones. Oliver is still a very timid dog and shy around strangers, but give him about 10 minutes and he will sit down, look up at the person like he is saying "alright, you seem okay, you can pet me now". Everyone who meets him just loves him; he is the sweetest cutest little guy.

Thank you so much for all you do for the dogs and cats who need homes.

Angela

