

Bebo (and Foxy)

I adopted Bebo about six weeks ago. At first he was very shy; he always ran under the bed when I would approach him. By the end of the first week he became very close with my dog Foxy. You see, Foxy doesn't like dogs, she likes cats. She never had puppies, but she has nursed two kittens. So when Bebo came home, she fell in love. They are now inseparable. They each have their own bed, but they like to sleep together in one bed. Bebo is growing fast. He tries to get me to feed him every time I go near the kitchen. It almost sounds like he's really talking! He is the cutest ever. I love him to death!
