

Hera

I went to the SPCA in search of a small dog to keep at home with my parents, I was looking and looking and no dog really caught my attention, until I saw this cute spotted pooch laying on a blanket all curled up.. "She is awfully sickly looking" My mom pointed out, I asked to walk her just to see how she was like. The moment the door was open she jumped right up and looked healthy even though she was really skinny...

I took her out to the running pin to play with her where she stole my heart away with how playful and sneaky she was, I knew then I found my dog even though she was a little bigger than what I originally was looking for but i do not regret it.

Few hours later I had everything set and paid for, had Hera in the truck and headed home. When I got her home she was excited to make new friends with the family pets and she has gained a lot of weight and is 100% healthy... soon to start obedience school
