

Lilly aka Tilly

I am a volunteer at the Humane Society and enjoy working with the cats and walking the dogs. I never intended on adopting a cat since we had adopted my lap cat, Tango last year. But as fate would have it, I fell in love with a little black cat. Her name was Tilly and she is five months old.

Usually cats sleep the better part of the afternoon but on the day I went to volunteer, Tilly was not asleep. She was trying to wake up her brother. I decided to spend some time with her and get to know her a little better. She loved to chase the ball over and over. I decided she would be a perfect companion for Tango.

The Humane Society advised me to keep Tilly now Lilly, away from Tango for at least ten days. So I put her in my bedroom and keep the door closed. Lilly was so eager to see what those little orange paws were all about on the other side. I finally decided that it was time a supervised visit. As the story goes, it was meant to be. Tango and Lilly hit it off from the start. Her favorite activity is finding all the furry toys including my daughter's slipper and tossing it as high as possible and running. She loves to play fetch as does Tango.

Lilly still doesn't sleep during the afternoons. Lilly prefers to save her sleep time for a late evening cat nap and then comes to cuddle up for bed time.

We are very blessed to have her in our lives.
