

Maci

I adopted Maci when the humane society was at North Star Mall. At first when I heard all the dogs barking, I happen to work at the mall, anyway, when I heard all the dogs, I wasn't going to go look because I had absolutely no intentions on getting another dog. Well my coworker calls me and says I needed to take a look at all the dogs that were there, so I walked over. As soon as I walked up there she was, my Maci. Immediately I knew I had to give her a home as she already had a place in my heart. They had her named amaretto, but I already knew her Name had to begin w the letter M. I have two other dogs, Max and Maddie, so her name needed to fit. I've had Maci now for about a month and its as though I've had her her whole life. She fit in so well and my other dogs immediately accepted her. She is doing awesome and gives me the best hello every time I walk through the door. When I'm holding her, she looks up at me and puts her head against my chest, and I look back at her and say every time, "you're welcome and thank you for coming into my life as well". She is a wonderful addition to my life and my son loves her so much. I don't know her story or where she came from because I was told she was abandoned at the shelter. I really don't care where she came from because all that matters is that she came into my life.
