

Abel

Abel: I loved him before I met him. I met him and couldn't wait to bring him home. Spoiled him before I even got to come and pick him up! ;-) I showed up with my very own dog for the intro as soon as the doors opened practically. :-) Abel is now home with me today and seems to be pretty happy. He's explored the neighborhood, the back yard, the house, but not the upstairs yet lol maybe a bit scared to go up the stairs. But we shall see! I'm excited to get to work with him. We already have our rabies vaccine scheduled for Tuesday with my vet. I'm also looking forward to doing some obedience training.

And another update since it has been a few days ;-), he is still doing great! Very very happy! Especially to be outside! Lol. We were worried about him and my smaller dog Sugar, a dachshund, but they are doing wonderful with each other so far! They love to play. Just not when it's food time, that's a different story lol.. I keep them separate for that. But again, thank you for blessing us with Abel! He's amazing!"

Thank you for giving me and my family another member to ours! He is loved!
