

Emmy

Today is our Emmy's adoption birthday! We adopted her last year from The SA Humane Society. She was my anniversary gift from my boyfriend Cole. I already came as a package deal with 3 pets but we needed another kitten to complete our blended fur family. We weren't picky at all; Emmy was the first kitten we saw. How could we keep looking when she needed a home and we had a home to give? We played with her for a bit, filled out all the paper work and had to wait a day to bring her home. When we went back the next day we think she recognized us! She ran up to the window and started rubbing up against it. That was the first clue that she was going to be the affectionate cuddle bug that she is. I had no expectations; I just wanted my other pets to get along with her. Now that a year has past, I can't imagine my home without her. She's so gorgeous, she has so much spunk, she's the quirkiest little baby in the world, she's hilarious, and she's so tiny but eats like her stomach is a bottomless pit. She might have been a puppy in a past life, she runs to the door to greet us when we get home everyday. She purrs like crazy. She's so friendly to everyone. She's the only cat I've ever met that didn't go through the toe-biting kitten phase. She is a little mischievous; the other day we came home to her bag of cat treats and a bag of pecans ripped open and thrown about. But how can you get mad at a little angel? When she learned to jump on the counter, instead of teaching her that it's wrong, I turned into a proud mama taking pictures. And she thought our Christmas tree was a toy made just for her to climb. She definitely has us wrapped around her little paw. I have no idea how she and the rest of her litter found their way to your shelter, but I'm so glad she did. Every night we end the day with our 2 dogs and our 2 cats cuddled up with us on the couch in blissful happiness.

Thank you for giving us the chance to adopt her and for all the hard work you do to save so many other pets.
