

Meeko

On Feb. 7, 2012, my boyfriend and I were having lunch at Olive Garden when we decided to visit the SA Humane Society. It was that day I fell in love with this darling 3 month old puppy named Angie. Of course, we adopted her!

I cannot say enough about my wonderful baby now named Meeko. I learned fast that having a puppy was not easy. She was a handful and quite the chewer.

Meeko was our baby and she could do no wrong through our eyes.

About three months ago, I gave birth to my first child, Kennedy Bee. At first, we wondered how Meeko would react to the new addition to our family. She was so use to being the center of attention and now she would have to share the spotlight. I must admit we were terrified! We had no idea what we would do if Meeko didn't like having a baby sister. She has always been a friendly dog but nonetheless, we had our reservations. After countless conversations, we knew no matter what happened we would make it work! Little did we know, Meeko would be the best big sister ever!!!

I feel like a fool for ever worrying about how Meeko would react. She has been absolutely wonderful to Kennedy Bee. Of course, Meeko was not a fan of the late night crying and would opt to sleep in the living room. Now 3 months later, she doesn't mind the crying so much. I'm so excited to see them grow together. I can't believe that I got so lucky to have such an amazing dog who loves her baby sister.

I felt the need to tell my story because so many dogs are surrendered due to fear that they will not get along with the children. All I have to say is TRAINING and PATIENCES is key. We have to remember, our furry friends are being subject to change too and like us need time to adjust.

Thank you, Stephanie
