

Lily Munster

October 30, 2018 was the day I brought this precious little stinker home. Lily Munster - formerly known by her über cute shelter name, Duck - has changed our home for the better. A month before my cat I'd had for over a decade just laid down and died, leaving me devastated and unable to even blink at another cat without hurting. This little girl has not only turned my world upside down in the best way but now has an older brother, George - I went to petco for CAT TREATS and left with a cat! - to play with. She went from turning her back to shelter visitors to sitting guard around the house, surveying her land and her people. Lily is a delight and I couldn't be more thankful for the SAHS for rescuing her, so I could bring her home! Here is Lily taking a small break before another wrestling match with George.
