

Ellie

I wanted to write to you all to update you about Ellie (originally Turtle) who I adopted on August 17, 2008 right after her fifth birthday. Ellie has been such a perfect fit into my life and is such a great companion. She loves to cuddle with me when I get home from work, and her favorite thing in the world is going for a long walk around the neighborhood! We took basic obedience classes soon after her adoption and she caught on quickly to all the basic skills.

Soon after she came home with me, I found out that she had some pretty bad allergies, which I think is the reason her former family gave her up. Fortunately I was able to get her tested and get her started with immunosuppressive therapy through allergy shots. Now she is much more comfortable and happy! She thinks she is now living in the lap of luxury with plenty of comfy places to lounge around the house, lots of love and back scratches, yummy home cooked food, and lots of treats! My mother especially loves coming over and spoiling Ellie by giving her lots of love and treats!

Ellie has been the light of my life and is so great to have around! She has had no behavior problems and was already potty trained and familiar with doggie doors when I got her. Thank you all so much for taking such good care of her until I found her! I can't imagine ever having a sweeter or more wonderful little dog!
