

Kaiser

Kaiser was brought into the Humane Society in December 2007 when he was found in a rental home with his brothers and sisters. I happened to visit the Humane Society the end of December and found him (his name was Jacko). He was such a loving 2 ½ month old puppy, I just had to adopt him. He is part German Shepherd part Chow Chow and part, I believe, Golden Retriever.

Today, he is such a joy to have because he is so cute, smart, and just an overall loving dog. After adopting Kaiser from the Humane Society, I would never go anywhere else to get a dog. He will be training for his AKC good citizen certificate in the fall 2010. He is a ball of fire but I think he can obtain his certificate because he is such a well behaved dog.

I hope that others will find that adopting a dog from a shelter will be as much of a joy as it has been for me.
