The Baron

I adopted Sneakers, who I've renamed The Baron, a few days ago. I was looking for a young adult cats under 2 years old, but I met this 3 year old kitty and once she laid her head on my ankle, I knew she was coming home with me (I probably would have taken her even if she was a bit older). She's been doing great; being in a new place, she's still jumpy and paranoid of loud noises, but is progressing incredibly fast. The Baron is easily persuaded out from under the bed with food and affection. She is so sweet and always sticks to my side. I look forward to seeing her become more comfortable with her surroundings and continue to be my baby for years to come. :D
