Just an update on Hershey!

She is still obviously shy but is fitting in well! She only had one potty accident the first night but has been very good at letting me know when she needs to go and when she's ready to come back inside. She attempted playing with my daughter yesterday but still hesitant.

“ She also met our cats and was not very happy at first but is getting used to them being around her and they all sneak behind each other to sniff each other. We are so happy to have her home!
