Stories!

“Bentley (AKA Curly) has been doing so good! She’s already showing a bit of her personality by rolling around on bedding and jumping in excitement when she’d like food/water or needs to go potty.

When she is showing signs of hunger after she’s received her full portion of food, she enjoys chewing on ham bones, pig ears, and raw hide. On car rides, she gets small treats of freeze-dried beef liver, and loves napping in her little bed. She did great during her first bath, but doesn’t seem like a water lover.

“She hasn’t shown any aggression whatsoever. My youngest daughter has been the only one to get her to fetch a ball, so I’m eager to work on that with her.

We have a very active house, which is two stories, so she’s getting lots of exercise. Our goal is to get her in a healthy weight range, then start training her for a therapy/disability certification.
