“ Hello,
King is now Coby. He is learning his name, not to pull on the lead, go into his cage, commands like off, come, stay, wait; and to sit and pray for his food before eating. He is learning not to bark at other dogs and trust mom and dad will protect him instead. He is learning to just stare at other dogs without barking at them and can smell them if they aren't barking back. He is fine with kids older than 5 and did great with a 2 year old petting him, as long as they are coming to him quietly without screaming or being too excited. He is scared of the wagon his older brother Moby gets on but he's getting use to it the more he sees it. We know one day he will enjoy the ride too.

“Hoping Coby will also learn to get in his dog travel backpack so we can take him everywhere with us just like his brother Moby. He is still a little skittish so we are taking training at his pace. He doesn't like loud noises but nothing mom and dad can't handle or help him with. He does pick up somethings quickly but having boundaries and repeating things is key for him. Coby is a calm after his 15 min walk/run. He is a very sweet and joyful little soul and we love seeing him smile. His older brother passed away this Friday but he did get to meet him and did great with our beloved Moby. Little did we know we would need Coby more than he needed us. Coby is helping us to laugh with the silly things he does and we know he is helping us through our time of grief. We are thankful for your service in allowing us to adopt him. We can wait for the adventure we will have with him. The Garzas
