“ He’s been doing great. I quickly slipped into calling him Steven once I got him home because I had to constantly guide him with my voice and Stevie Wonder was a mouthful, haha!! But he responds to his names. He has so much energy and still purrs so loudly the moment he starts brushing up next to me or starts getting comfortable on a blanket.

He navigates his new home with ease now. He was a quick learn (found the litter box, food bowl, furniture, etc). He follows me around everywhere and waits by the door when I’m getting home. I have an older cat (Zoë, a tortoise shell about 12 years old) and she sometimes just sits and stares at him, haha! I can only imagine what she’s thinking. They’re getting along pretty well—he’s keeping her active. He’s also growing pretty quickly and looking like he’ll be a pretty big cat.
